Mission Statement:

STOMP Out Bullying™ is dedicated to changing the culture for all students. It works to reduce and prevent bullying, cyberbullying and other digital abuse, educates against homophobia, LGBTQ+ discrimination, racism and hatred, and deters violence in schools, online and in communities across the country. In this diverse world, STOMP Out Bullying promotes civility, inclusion and equality. It teaches effective solutions on how to respond to all forms of bullying, as well as educating kids and teens in school and online. It provides help for those in need and at risk of suicide, and raises awareness through peer mentoring programs in schools, public service announcements by noted celebrities, and social media campaigns.
2019 was remarkable. I am filled with gratitude at what, together, we have accomplished. We couldn’t have made it this far (fifteen years and counting) or affected the lives of so many, without the steadfast support and generosity of our corporate sponsors, partners, and donors.

Since our inception, our message, programs, and services have positively impacted over 5 million youths empowered victims of bullying and cyberbullying, encouraged youth to stand up to hatred, racism, and discrimination and saved over 2,000 lives through our HelpChat Line.

Each year, I am in awe at the outpouring of support from people throughout the US and beyond who act purposefully to prevent and raise awareness on the issues of bullying and cyberbullying and to change the culture. Visit our website or social media pages and you’ll see our followers engaging in current events, commenting on posts, sharing a tweet or donning a blue t-shirt, as they #BlueUp, for World Day of Bullying Prevention and National Bullying Prevention Month. And, there’s more.

Our Youth Leaders are excited to visit classrooms all over this country to encourage their peers to stand up to injustice and all forms of bullying, on and offline. We are fortunate, indeed blessed, to be sustained by corporate partners and foundations, some spanning more than a decade like The New York Jets.

There is not enough space in this short message to communicate all my appreciation for our benefactors. Rather, I’ll let this Annual Report speak for itself. But I will share one story that crystalizes this magical year.
It's about a fourth grader in Florida, who happened to be a huge fan of the University of Tennessee football team. One day in class, he sketched out the team's logo, a rough a “U” and “T,” to which his classmates bullied him until he broke into tears. Word of what occurred spread, reaching UT’s campus. They decided to celebrate this boy’s renderings by replicating them onto a t-shirt and selling them online and in Vo Shoppe. Within weeks, 912,000 shirt had been sold, raising nearly a million dollars for anti-bullying prevention.

Guess which nonprofit received those funds? Yes, you guessed right. We were thrilled with the $912,000 donation. We mentioned the donation to The New York Jets who explained that one of their players was donating $40,000 to us from his nomination at the NFL’s Walter Payton Man of the Year awards. The Jets donated the rest, making it a cool $1 million. We bear witness to the power of collective action to stand up for change—to prevent bullying wherever we find it. This is what we do. We raise awareness. We rally for change. We stand united. Because of your support, our programs and services will continue to expand and we can change the culture to one of kindness, care and inclusion.

Thank you for taking the time to peruse these pages, and to better understand the impact we are making together.

Sincerely,

Ross Ellis

The Issues – By the Numbers

1 out of 5 KIDS are BULLIED.¹

People who have experienced violence, including child abuse, bullying, or sexual violence are at higher risk for suicide.² ³

36.5% of children age 12-17 admitted to having been cyberbullied in their lifetime.⁴

YOUTH VIOLENCE KILLS AND INJURES.

Homicide is the 3rd leading cause of death for young people ages 10-24. Each day, about 13 young people are victims of homicide and about 1,100 are treated in emergency departments for nonfatal assault-related injuries.⁵

Depending on the year surveyed, UP TO 37% of students say they have been DIGITALLY HARASSED.6

CYBERBULLYING IS ON THE RISE.7

5.4 MILLION students skip school at some point in the year for fear of being bullied.8

87.3% of LGBTQ+ students experienced harassment at school.9

60% of boys who were bullies in middle school had at least one criminal conviction by the age of 24.10

End The Hate... Change The Culture
National Culture Week

For the second year in a row, STOMP Out Bullying livestreamed Culture Shock to schools across the nation and as far as Japan and the U.K. The event sparked a dialogue among young people on the negative aspects of our culture—the racism, hatred, homophobia—and the need to transform our culture into one imbued with empathy, inclusion and kindness. Culture Shock, a panel discussion of various celebrities kicked off National Culture Week which was livestreamed to over 300,000 students.
The live event was held at The New School in New York City with 275 students in attendance while schools across the U.S. and beyond watched by Livestream. Moderated by New York Jets legend Tony Richardson, the panel included: actress, Stephanie Hsu; actor, Mark Indelicato; actor, Rohan Chand; actor, and Alyson Stoner, actress. The prior year included Logan Browning, actress; Josie Totah, actress; and LGBTQ+ transgender activist, Sarah McBride.

Thousands of teachers, guidance counselors, and principals from middle and high schools throughout the fifty states and beyond signed up as Ambassadors, helping to stream the conversation into classrooms and auditoriums.
National Bullying Prevention Awareness Month

Every October, STOMP Out Bullying leads the way in heightening awareness on the issues of bullying, cyberbullying and the critical need for prevention.

Cityscapes Aglow

To officially launch the month-long awareness campaign, on October 7th, World Day of Bullying Prevention™, we invited city officials and building owners to light up the skyline in blue. Nearly two dozen city structures, towers, buildings and bridges, glimmered in a cool blue in the night sky. Just to name a few: the iconic Empire State Building, Mercedes-Benz Superdome in New Orleans, The Wrigley Building in Chicago, and 1 Liberty Plaza in Philadelphia, among others.
Donning Blue

On World Day of Bullying Prevention, we asked supporters to #BlueUp, by wearing a blue shirt, to send a message of solidarity so that bullying prevention was heard around the world. Thousands of STOMP Out Bullying t-shirts were sold, emboldened with the message: “Our voices will make Bullying History.” Through social media, we witnessed the incredible power of a united voice as thousands of photos of classrooms and gymnasiums filled up our screen, showing a sea of blue, standing as one against bullying.

PSAs

Central to our messaging strategy, STOMP Out Bullying created a series of award-winning PSAs with celebrities and youth influencers to spread our message of tolerance for all kids and teens, regardless of race, creed, or sexual orientation. Appearing in PSA’s were ‘Extra’ host Tanika Ray, Broadway stars, Will Roland and Ashley Park; Olympic Gold Medalist, Laurie Hernandez; “Ghostbusters” director, Paul Feig; among others. These PSAs made over 400,000 impressions airing in taxicabs across the country.
Social Media — Promoting Positivity

On our platforms of Facebook (with 158k followers), Twitter (85k followers), and Instagram (35k followers), we post daily positive messages to encourage acts of kindness, self-appreciation, and acceptance of diverse communities. These postings aim to shift the culture one post at a time.

Additionally, we engaged and educated our followers with monthly e-blasts and blog posts. A true indicator that our message resonated among our constituency was evidenced by the fact that in 2019, our supporters raised an amazing $59,476 through Facebook fundraisers in support of our cause. These online events, birthdays and anniversaries, demonstrate the passion of our supporters to change the culture for the better.
#SeeMe Campaign

This campaign, initiated in 2018. It aims to inspire youth to see the beauty in themselves and others and to post pictures, as they want the world to see them. The video has been viewed thousands of times, often accompanied with photos. The #SeeMe Campaign continues to reverberate throughout the zeitgeist, two years after its first urging youth to get to know others not for just the way they look.

National #BlockItOut Day

On November 14th, we reminded kids and teens to block out the negativity in their digital lives and to pay it forward by encouraging their friends and family to do the same. We prompted digital users to block out hatred, shamers, trolls and cyberbullies with a click and to send out a unified message that bullying and cyberbullying are unwelcome and unwanted. This year’s campaign reached just under 3 million people.
The HelpChat Line

The HelpChat Line is a lifeline for youth in crisis. Available to youth, ages 13 to 24, its goal is to mitigate the stress, confusion and fear that accompany being bullied and to empower youth to make healthy decisions. Last year alone, we received calls from youth victimized by harassment or abuse, on- and off-line. As always, some callers confided they were contemplating suicide. Since its inception, we are proud to have assisted over 100,000 youth and saved over 2,000 lives.
Youth Empowerment

Our Youth Leaders are trained to speak out against the toxicity of abusive language and behaviors and the need to stand up to hatred in all its forms. Speaking mostly to peer groups, Youth Leaders speak at schools and community centers, to the media, on news shows and to congress. One youth leader spoke to her synagogue, another to the media. Our Youth Leaders also take on an active role in sharing, re-tweeting and re-posting STOMP Out Bullying social media posts, spreading our message far and wide to their friends and family.

Resources for Educators

STOMP Out Bullying supports educators and administrators nationwide by creating Bullying Prevention Toolkits. Based on proven Social Emotional Learning methods, these kits allow teachers to structure meaningful dialogue in their classrooms on the topics of bullying, cyberbullying and techniques for dealing with bullies. In 2019, over 11,000 of our easy-to-use toolkits were ordered by educators.
NOTEWORTHY EVENTS 2019

Making the News

With 1 out of 5 kids bullied, media outlets seek out the expert advice of our founder, president and CEO and national bullying and cyberbullying expert, Ross Ellis. In 2019, Ross appeared on TV news shows, was quoted in numerous articles and interviewed for radio shows and podcasts. A few press highlights include:

- January 24, a guest appearance on “DR. OZ;” Ross Ellis, right
- March 4, interviewed on WABC-TV, for the #BeKind Campaign
- September 17, Good Day Street Talk, Ross Ellis with anchor Antwan Lewis
- October 8, on WPIX11 Morning News, along with former New York Jets Jonotthan Harrison
- December 16, quoted in a Forbes.com article, “Instagram AI Tool to Flag Offensive, Bullying Captions. But What About Facebook?”
2019 New York Jets-STOMP Out Bullying Educators Symposium

On August 29th, at MetLife Stadium, the Jets and STOMP Out Bullying combined forces to co-organize the 4th annual Tackle Bullying Educators Symposium, focusing on digital resilience and student-athlete culture building. 250 participants attended.

2019 Gala

On March 18th, STOMP Out Bullying celebrated its 13th Anniversary at the Mandarin Oriental, in New York City. Recipients honored that night were Kevin Lenahan, Senior Vice President, Chief Financial Officer and Administrative Officer of Atlantic Health System, with the Corporate Leadership Award; Michele Hall-Duncan, President & Chief Executive Officer, enCourage Kids Foundation, with the Public Service Leadership Award; and Paul Feig, Writer, Director, Producer and Actor, with the Nonprofit Leadership Award.
